This story is inspired by Russian writer Anton Chekhov

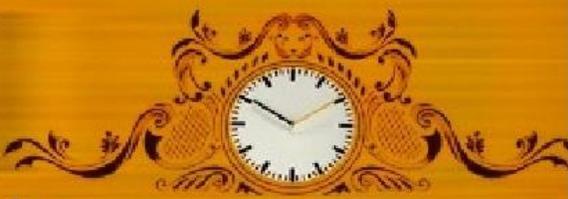

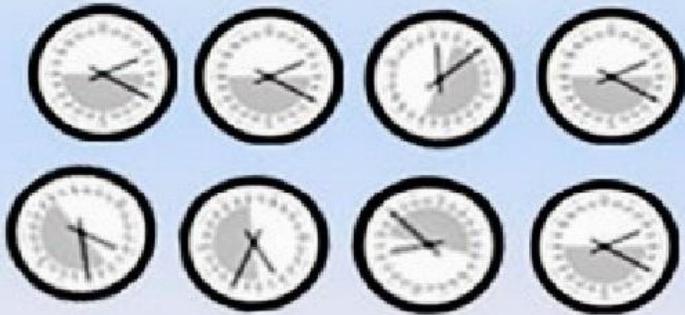

In the Joy City, people work hard and actively. People don't waste their time without interest, but rather do everything in their power so that their city remains clean and beautiful. Therefore, their projects and productions are advanced. People work for a better future.

In the market of the Joy City, there is a shop that sells watches, and the man who owns the shop is called Hossam. He awakes early, opens his shop, adjusts watches and organizes them in a nice way so that they are attractive for customers. Hossam masters his business so he is a successful seller.

Perfect Shop

While Hossam was standing at the door of the shop, he saw a man looking up at the showcase of watches. The man looks silently and then after a while he goes away.

Hossam observed this scene of the man several times. Hossam asked himself why does this man come and stand seeing my watches, then he goes away without buying anything? Hossam was astonished of the behavior of that man and decided to ask him why he is standing in front of his showcase?

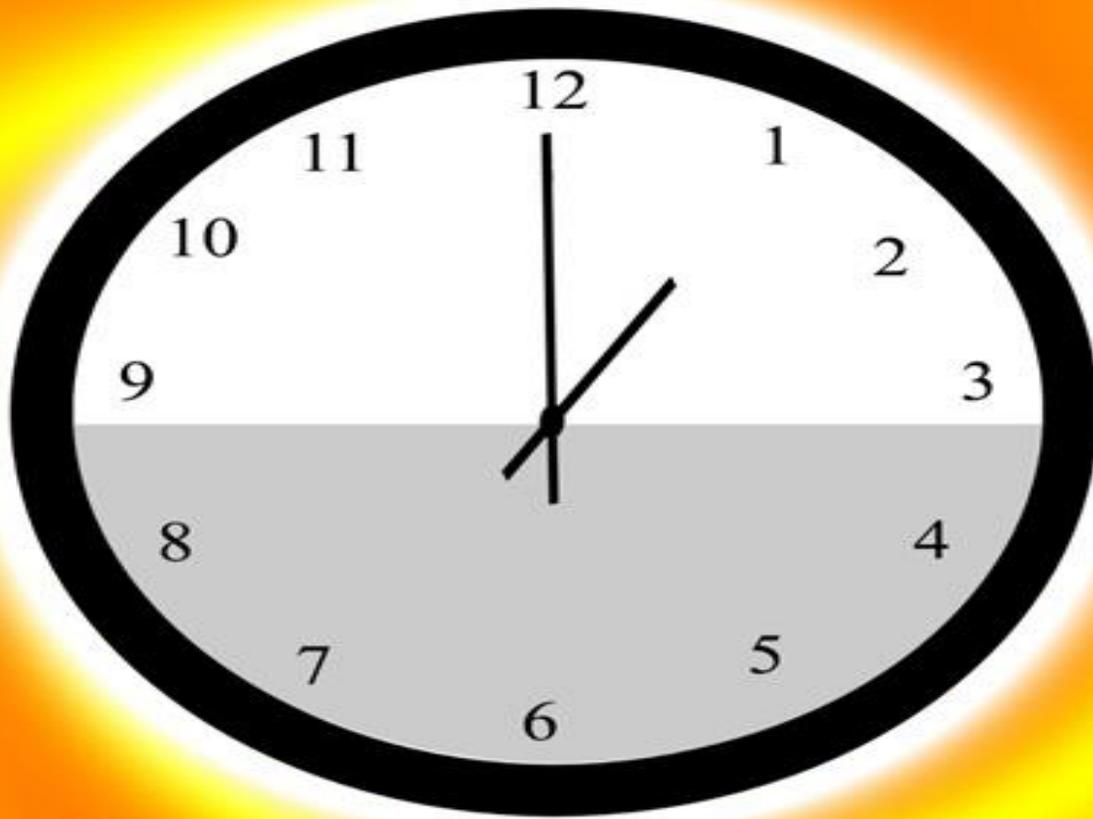

ساعاتي الأمانة

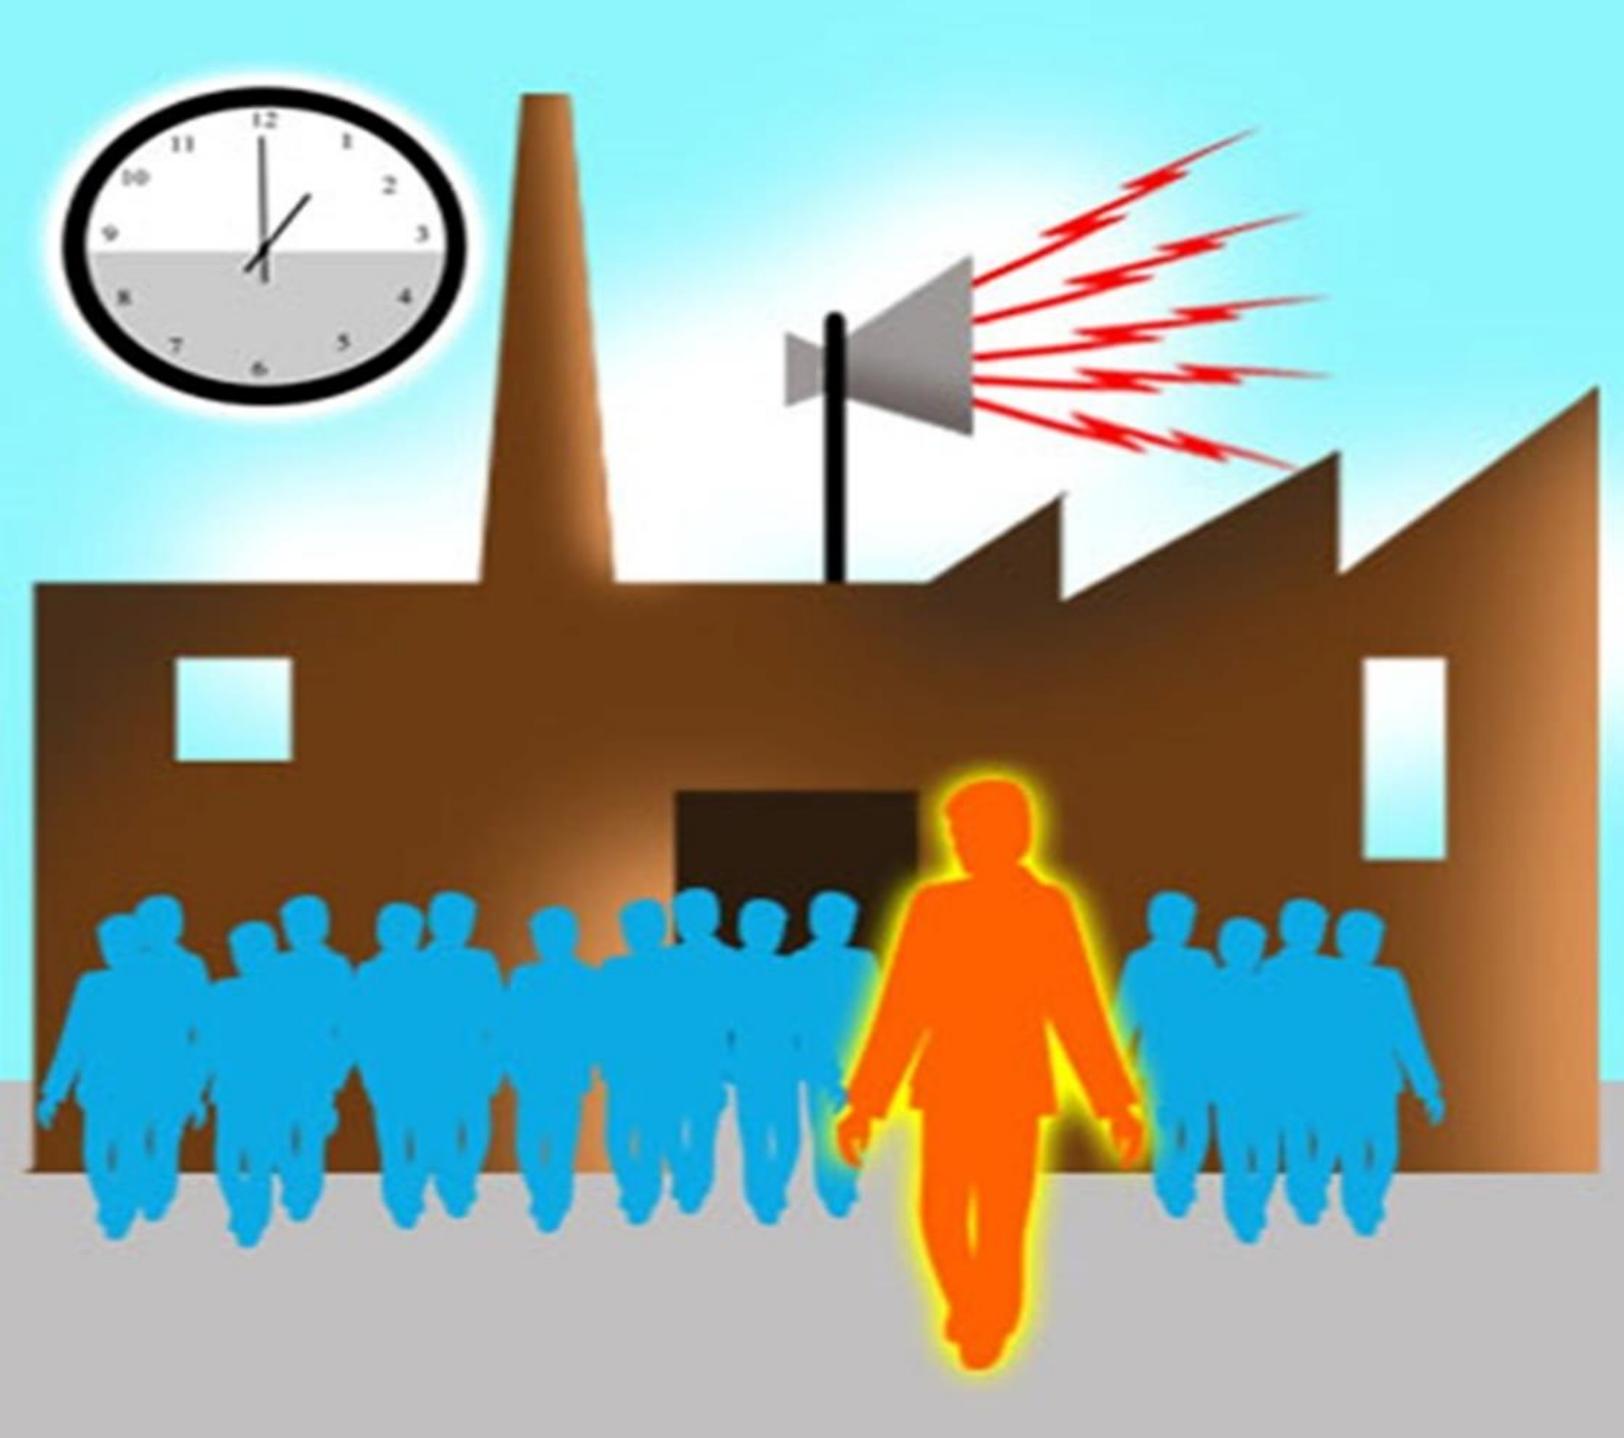

The next morning, Hossam found the man in front of his vitrine. Immediately he said to him: Please I see you every day, at the same time, come and looking at watches, why? Do you want to buy a watch? The man said: No, sir, I have set my watch on your watches.

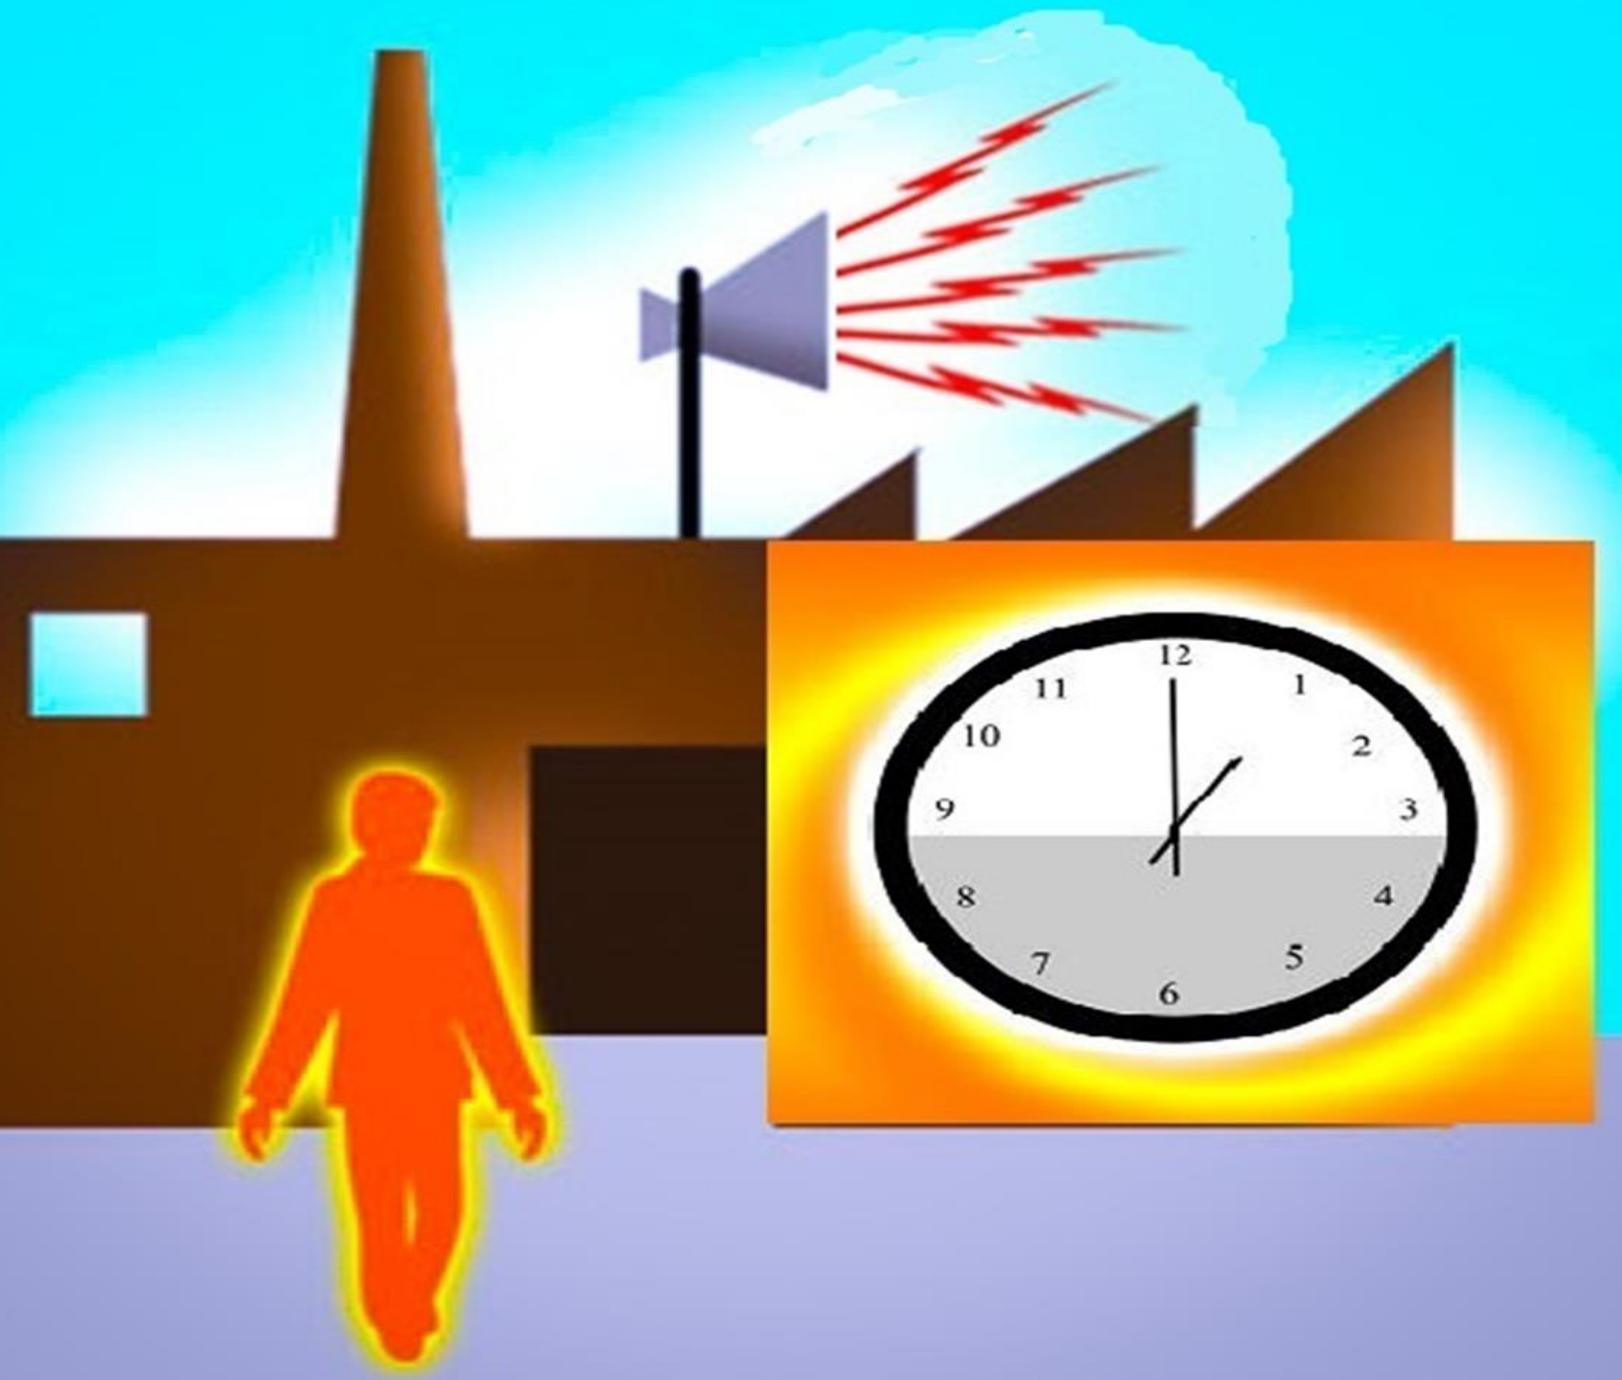

Hossam said: Ah, but where do you work? The man said: I work in the factory next door to you. Hossam asked: And what do you do in the factory? The man said: I am the employee who is responsible for the whistle of work shift.

The whistle of shift work is at one o'clock in the evening.

The man said: Yes, our factory does three shifts every day, that is, every 8 hours, there is a shift. We are working hard to produce what our beautiful city needs, and we also export the rest to other countries abroad, which are proud of our productions.

Hossam said smiling: It is strange.

The man said: What is strange about that?!

Hossam told the man: Because I set my watch on the whistle of your factory.

The man said smiling: This is impressive, because each one of us knows his work perfectly and completes each other.
